Visit a real glassmaking experience in West Norfolk

at the Caithness Crystal Visitor Centre in King's Lynn

With free admission and free glassmaking demonstrations the Caithness Crystal Visitor Centre just off Paxman Road on the Hardwick Industrial Estate in King's Lynn is well worth a visit from your school.

Children can experience glassmaking first hand and learn more about this master craft. The skilled glassmakers conduct free demonstrations daily throughout the week creating vases, animals and other glassware.

A visit to the Centre is relevant to the National Curriculum in so many ways;-

Art & Design - Exploring and developing ideas, evaluating work, investigating craft and design.

D & T - Working with tools, equipment, materials and components to make quality products.

Science - Changing materials

Plus with every new school visit, there is a free DVD containing information on the glassmaking process and glass recycling as well as supporting literature.

For further information on school group visits, including our commitment to the health and safety of your party and information relating to our risk assessment, please call 01553 765111 or email info@caithness-crystal.co.uk.
